Trap Shooters!!!

The Trap Committee would like to remind you that if you are using a semi-automatic shotgun you need to have a shell catcher. This could be one that is manufactured for the gun which can be bought at the local sporting stores or online at www.tandshellcatcher.com. You could also use two rubber bands. Ask any member of the committee to help you if you have any questions.

Summer Games

This years Badger State Games were again a success with people from all over the state coming to the OCC to shoot. All winners were:

Club Thank You

Paul,

I would like to thank the OCC for hosting a wonderful event, your volunteers were all awesome, and really made us feel at home during our stay. I appreciated the extra lengths they went through to ensure that we had contact numbers and safe shelter areas to head to if the weather turned bad during our over night stay.

Again thanks for all your hard work and we hope to see you again next year.

Victory for Gun Owners

In a 5-4 decision, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the Second Amendment applies not just to Washington, D.C. and other federal enclaves, but protects the rights of all Americans throughout the country. The opinion in McDonald v. City of Chicago brings an end to the nearly 30 year-long handgun ban that the city has imposed on its law-abiding citizens.

“This is a landmark decision,” said NRA Executive Vice President Wayne LaPierre. “The Second Amendment -- as every citizen’s constitutional right -- is now a real part of American constitutional law. The NRA will work to ensure this constitutional victory is not transformed into a practical defeat by activist judges defiant city councils or cynical politicians who seek to pervert, reverse or nullify the Supreme Court’s McDonald decision through Byzantine labyrinths of restrictions and regulations that render the Second Amendment inaccessible, unaffordable or otherwise impossible to experience in a practical, reasonable way.”

As a party to the case, the NRA participated in oral arguments before the Court in March. The NRA persuasively argued that the Second Amendment applies to state and local governments through the Fourteenth Amendment and that handgun bans, like those in the City of Chicago and the Village of Oak Park, are unconstitutional under any standard of judicial review. This same view was shared in friend of the court briefs by a bipartisan group of 309 members of Congress from both chambers, 38 state attorneys general, and hundreds of state legislators. Public opinion polls show that it is also shared by the overwhelming majority of the American people.

of “This decision makes absolutely clear that the Second Amendment protects the God-given right of self-defense for all law-abiding Americans, period,” said Chris W. Cox, NRA chief lobbyist. “Ironically, while crime in Chicago runs rampant and lawmakers there call on the National Guard for help, Mayor Daley has insisted on leaving the residents of his city defenseless. Today’s opinion puts the law back on the side of the law-abiding. We will be watching closely to make sure that Chicago abides by both the letter and the spirit of the Supreme Court’s decision.”
