Late Spring and Summer Walleye Techniques

Day: When the water starts to warm up, you will find that the Walleyes will go a little deeper or hide in the thick weeds. At this time of year, jigs with white twistertails are the best. You can try other colors but white is what works best in the far north so make sure you bring lots of them. Bring unscented twistertails. The scented Power Baits do not work as well as unscented.

Try jigging straight down in thick weeds in the 5 to 10-foot range. You can also jig off rocky points or shoals where there are drop-offs. If it's windy, then you can just drift and jig over the hot area.

Night: In the evening, the big Walleyes will come out of the deep water and patrol the shoreline for food. This is when you need to troll with small lures like we mentioned above. The difference is during the summer; the females go a lot deeper during the day than they do in the spring.

Deep Water: During the day, the smaller 1 to 4-pound Walleyes will stay shallower. The big trophy Walleye are usually females and will hide in deep holes during the day. You can try fishing deeper for them with jigs but you cannot really cover a lot of ground and fishing deep with jigs is only effective if you find a deep spot where the Walleyes are congregating.

To catch the big trophy Walleyes during the day, you have to fish deep and right off bottom or out in open water but down deep in the thermal layer.

Clubs Man & Woman of the Year

This years OCC Man of the Year goes to Tom Kohl. Tom has been a part of the club since birth and is always there to help out when needed. The Woman of the Year went to Amanda Heyn . Amanda is fairly new to the OCC family but in her short time has made a big impact. If you enjoy the new snacks and the wide variety of beverages (Spotted Cow) you need to thank Amanda. Congratulations to both Amanda and Tom on this prestigious award.
